About the Institute

The Institute of Development Studies, Jaipur was established in 1981 on the initiative of a group of academicians, scholars and administrators from Rajasthan. The Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR) and the Government of Rajasthan are supporting the activities of Institute. IDSJ is an autonomous organisation registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1958. Main objectives of the Institute include: (a) contributing to the understanding of the development process and problems; (b) conduct studies on issues pertaining to the marginalized sections and the hinterland; (c) adopt multi-disciplinary approach to research and (d) provide a forum for different stakeholders to discuss issues in development. It takes cognisance of the macro environment, planning processes and strategies including their socio-economic dimensions, and attempts to make interventions through research and dialogues. Particular attention is placed on studying the process, direct public interventions, poverty reduction, livelihood and employment generation programmes, and the participatory efforts of voluntary organisations with respect to the marginalized sections of the society. The Institute is specifically concerned with regional issues relating to Rajasthan and western India. As an ICSSR-State Government supported organisation since its inception, it aims to promote research, training, consultation, and change of scholarship and information dissemination in the state and beyond.

Since its establishment, the Institute of Development Studies, Jaipur (IDS) has adopted a multi-disciplinary and dynamic approach to research on topics related to development. The Institute has established partnerships with the state and central governments, other parastatal organisations, the private sector, and a wide range of non- governmental organisations and members of the civil society for furthering its objectives. It has also created a forum for voicing concerns related to public policy on socio-economic issues in the state of Rajasthan and beyond. Additionally, it has conducted training programmes for capacity-building among various stakeholders in the development sphere.

The Approach

The approach of the Institute is to generate knowledge on development processes by undertaking research studies and make timely interventions through dissemination of knowledge so generated. The studies cover macro initiatives and policy environment, development strategies, planning processes, their trickle down effects, direct government intervention and efforts of voluntary non-governmental Organisations. The Institute's research efforts include theoretical analysis (in-built as well as explicit), applied studies (the output becoming input into policies, programmes or trainings) and adaptive studies (operational researches, trainings and sensitization programmes). The dissemination of output is undertaken through a combination of following modes:

- Presentation of research findings in result-dissemination workshops or seminars at the Institute as well as elsewhere;
- Presentation before Government of India, State Government or sponsoring organizations;
- Use of research results in trainings in the Institute as well as elsewhere;
- In-built dissemination of results in operational research projects;
- Publications in the form of books, research reports, monographs, working papers and training/workshops reports;
- Publications in journals;
- Dissemination of knowledge through chairmanship/membership of Commissions, Missions or Committees; and
- Dissemination through media in the form of press releases, interviews, telecasts and broadcasts.

The impact and relevance of the Institute's activities is revealed from the following:

- Output of the Institute has formed a basis of several government decisions.
- Output of the Institute has become a part of several development projects or design of interventions.
- Output of the Institute has been incorporated as training material at different levels.
- Results of Institute's studies are quoted by policy makers, planners, international development agencies, civil society organizations, in public interest litigations and quoted by other researchers.
- Institute's faculty members have been included as Chairpersons/members/resource persons in Joint Review Missions, committees, task forces and expert groups at state, national and international levels.
- There have been repeated demand of Institute's faculty and researchers as leaders/collaborators in new studies.
- Researchers in operational studies work as active partners in development interventions.
- There is a demand for our published reports/papers by policy makers, development thinkers and researchers.
- There is persistent demand from media for our research results, interviews and panel discussions.
- There is a continuous demand from NGOs and voluntary organizations for our research results, collaboration in development initiatives and several forms of information.

Looking Ahead

Since 1981, the Institute has grown, having expanded its campus with 'tech- friendly' infrastructure and diversified its activities and faculty. The Institute continues with its endeavours of reaching out further. The Institute faces new challenges in the coming years and efforts are afoot to induct new faculty to bring in fresh ideas and strength its goals.

Known to be a primary multi-disciplinary research organisation, the Institute is currently working towards broadening its areas of work beyond conventional research. It aims to indulge extensively in development issues (rural and urban), create a wider forum for diverse stakeholders (government-NGO-private-civil society), raise attention towards weaker, under served and marginalised sections, and strengthen existing partnerships, through trainings and extension.

The Institute is in the process of developing Agriculture Sector Studies, Public Finance, Labour Studies, MSMEs, Women and Gender Studies, Urbanization, Energy Sector Studies, Water Sector Studies, Climate Change and Specific studies on ethnic minorities. While streamlining their research in these areas, our research portfolio not only focuses on Rajasthan-specific issues but it also goes beyond this state and trace out similar grounds in other parts of the country.

Our Partners

It has also partnered with other organisations to address (diversified) development issues- Rainfed agriculture, backwardness of Muslim community, livelihood security, public finance, human development, women empowerment, and micro- level planning, to name a few. Research Methodology Course held in IDSJ during

Themes of Research : Activities and Achievements

Over a time period, the Institute has come out with five broad areas where the faculty, with interdisciplinary approach under research. These are 1) economic policies and strategies; 2) natural resource management and environment; 3) social policies: institutions, governance and civil society; 4) women and gender studies; and 5) NGOs and Panchayati Raj system. However, the research interest of faculties crossed beyond the boundary over the years.

Economic Policies and Strategies

There has been a large focus on the poor and disadvantaged groups in the Institute since its inception. In the 1980s, special focus was on studies on socio-economic infrastructure, industrial linkages, and problems of the disadvantaged classes. In the 1990s, studies on agricultural policies and prices, macroeconomics, labour and tourism were additionally conducted. Studies on agricultural credit, micro- finance, agriculture, employment, dairy, institutions and human development were added to the list in the 2000s.

Natural Resource Management and Environment

The major aspects focused upon in the 1980s were desertification, deteriorating environment, livestock husbandry and migration. In the 1990s the focus expanded to interventions for improving incomes of sheep breeders, remote sensing and planning for water. In the 2000s, the Institute has carried out studies on bio-diversity, institutional reforms, livelihoods, water conflicts, urban environmental impact studies and so on and so forth.

Social Policies: Institutions, Governance and Civil Society

In the 1980s, evaluation studies of various anti-poverty programmes were carried out. In the 1990s, studies on the informal sector/non-farm sector, other sub-sectors and the public distribution system were also conducted. A number of studies independently and jointly with NGOs and civil societies, on rights-based approaches to development, have also been initiated in the new millennium.

Women and Gender Studies

The Institute began its activities in the area of Gender Studies in the early 1980s by questioning the processes, (and to) women's subordinated status in society. An organic linkage was established with the Women's Development Programme of the Government of Rajasthan. Over the last three decades, the research in the area of Gender Studies has focused on understanding issues related to women's rights and empowerment. Gender has been a cross-cutting theme across sectors such as education, violence, sexual and reproductive health, livelihoods and poverty. The faculty has been closely involved in the women's movement both at the state and national level. Gender Training has also been actively taken up as part of research activities in IDSJ.

The NGO and Panchayati Raj Centre

The Institute established the NGO and Panchayati Raj and Centre in the 1990s to train and disseminate research-based information to NGOs and members of the civil society. This activity has now expanded to partnering with NGOs and civil society for joint action. The Centre continues to maintain a close association with current development processes. It provides a forum for debates on development issues, in addition to establishing relationships between policy planners, experts, thinkers and Panchayati Raj Institutions. The Centre anticipates creating a full-fledged public sphere for dialogue and consensus between the civil society and the state. It adopts a strategy comprised of mix-dialogues, building relationships and advocacy. It supports social movements for perceived injustices and specific causes. The Centre's activities are constantly up-scaled and revamped with the involvement and inflow of funding from the UN and other donor agencies for assessing needs and aspirations of the civil society. The Centre recognises specific concerns and issues like livelihoods, natural resources, social exclusion, education and health at the state and district levels, consequently influencing policy-making processes and donor organisation agendas. One major activity of the centre is to act as Nodal agency for Childline project of Rajasthan.

The project, Childline Research Support and Monitoring, is an attempt towards analysing the programmes and schemes of the Rajasthan Government for children vis-à-vis CRC. This is an ongoing project wherein the Institute is a nodal agency. "A child-friendly nation that guarantees the rights and protection of all children" is the vision of Childline. CHILDLINE is a national, 24- hours, free, emergency telephone helpline and outreach service for children in need of care and protection. CHILDLINE number 1098 is a toll free number that is common in all the cities of India. Initially started in Mumbai in June, 1996, CHILDLINE is currently operational in 200 cities. CHILDLINE aims to reach out to the most marginalized children and provides interventions of Medical, Shelter, Repatriation, Rescue, Death related, Sponsorships, Emotional support and guidance. CIF is the nodal organisation for CHILDLINE service across the country. The goal of CIF is to reach out to marginalised children in need of care and protection. CHILDLINE reaches out to every child in need and ensure their rights and protection through the 4 Cs: Connect through technology to reach the 'last mile', Catalyze systems through active advocacy, Collaborate through integrated efforts between children, the state, civil society, corporate and community to build a child friendly social order and Communicate to make child protection everybody's priority.

CHILDLINE shares a vibrant and dynamic relationship with the children it works with. Ingrained in its daily functioning, are grass root outreach and interaction with children. Monthly are Open House, an open forum for children to share feedback about the functioning of the service, as well as share their issues and concerns for themselves, is critical to the functioning of CHILDLINE. City mapping, an extensive exercise to highlight high risk areas where children are prone to abuse, and child protection resources, enables CHILDLINE to determine priorities and reach out more effectively. Children and youth identify with CHILDLINE and often offer their services as volunteers. They play a critical role in creating awareness about the CHILDLINE service and work as informers who inform CHILDLINE about children in need of assistance. Many of these children and youth grow into the CHILDLINE system and find themselves a space in CHILDLINE centers as paid volunteers or team members. Formats for documentation are prepared for feedback of various activities under Child line. Re-orientation Programme and Resource organizations meeting were organized at Institute of Development Studies Premises with NGOs and Childline Functionaries. The problems faced by the functionaries were discussed in the programme.

Among various activities, Childline message were displayed on the website of Tourism Department and on the walls of schools. CHILDLINE message is imposed on every fitness vehicles according to Government circulars i.e. Auto, Bus, Truck etc. Information about CHILDLINE 1098 is being printed on water Bills and Electricity Bills. News items on CHILDLINE are regularly published in local dailies (Hindi & English). IDSJ as a nodal organization did networking with NGOs and government departments.

Childline Jaipur in Collaboration with RSCPCR, Rajasthan organized a one day workshop on 5th November, 2014 on “Strengthening of Juvenile Justice System”. Issues related to child protection, Child Labour, Child Trafficking, POCSO, Child Abuse, Corporal Punishment were discussed at length. Directorate Child Rights, JJB and CWC members, staff of Children Homes, NGOs, Media, various funding agencies and members of Childline Rajasthan attended the workshop. 70 participants attended the workshop from the state.

Rajasthan Human Development Report, 2018

(Sponsor: Directorate of Economics & Statistics, Department of Planning, Government of Rajasthan) (31.03.2016 to 30.01.2017)

Motilal Mahamallik and Kanchan Mathur

The central objective of any planning and policy is to enrich human development. The preparation of Human Development Index (HDI) at International, National, sub-national and even city level shows the acceptability of the concept. Defining people's well-being as the end of development and treating economic growth as a means have been central messages of the Human Development Report since 1990s¹ (Fukuda-parr and Kumar, 2004). In pursuance of this, union and state governments in India have taken measures to address the human development issues collaboratively as well as independently.

So far, Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan are only states, who have prepared more than one SHDR. The state of Rajasthan is a front runner in taking the initiative of preparing the Human Development Report. In fact so far there are three Human Development Report prepared in Rajasthan, (1) Human Development Report: 1999, by a group of independent researchers, (2) Human Development Report: 2002 by Government of Rajasthan, and (3) Human Development Report an Update, 2008 prepared by Institute of Development Studies, Jaipur for the Government of Rajasthan. The present HDR for Rajasthan 2015 is assigned to “Institute of Development Studies, Jaipur” by the Government of Rajasthan.

The theme of the report as decided in the inception workshop is “equity and sustainability”. Unlike any other report, the proposed Human Development Report of Rajasthan will estimate HDI, HPI, and GDI for districts of Rajasthan using the standard UNDP methodology. In addition to it the report will have nine chapters on different dimensions of human development. (There is a new trend observed now a day adopted by different institutions/government/agency preparing human development report, to incorporate analysis based on secondary as well and primary data in preparation of Human Development.) Following this, attempt will be made to incorporate experiences, and qualitative information collected from the field to enrich the quality of the report. Top three and bottom three districts will be identified based on the performance in the output indices such as HDI/ HPI/ GDI and primary (mostly qualitative) information will be collected to understand the reason of good and bad performance of these districts.

For preparation of the report a team of researchers in the “Institute of Development Studies, Jaipur” has been working constantly. In addition to it background papers are also invited from experts on different themes to enrich the quality of the report. A Technical Advisory Committee is formed to advise the research team preparing the HDR.

In addition to that we are constantly in touch with the state government department/s and holding frequent meetings with various officials on different issue as and when necessary to make the report realistic.
